

Mahesh Umrrania

Mahesh was born with normal sight, lost sight completely in both eye at the age of nine years, educated in a blind school and currently doing diploma in Indian classical music (sitar) from Bombay University. He wants to be reputed sitar player

Mahesh has good memories of the visual world including colors, but does not remember faces of people including that of his patients and family members

Window had always attracted me as a kid with normal sight. Window was not the same for me as I slowly lost my sight completely

Use of non-visual senses to photograph the window made me 'see' through the window better than ever before

Mahesh

As a student of Indian classical music I wanted to photograph the music room

Interestingly the series of photographs are my 'visual journey' to reach my musical destination

Mahesh

I was made aware of the mirror in the toilet

I have no memories of faces after losing complete sight in both eyes, taking 'self-portrait' may help me to remember the lost faces

Mahesh

Closed door 'seen' by closed eyes
